THE J.D.C. AND THE ZIONIST ORGANIZATION

The present situation in American Jewish life, where almost an open conflict exists between the leaders of the J.D.C. and those of the Zionist movement, is most deplorable and regrettable. To the earnest Jew, interested in Zionism and in European relief, but uninitiated in the mysteries of political chicanery, the present state of affairs is bewildering and depressing. At a period of Jewish history, when unusual opportunities for constructive achievement are presenting themselves, and when Jewry the world over is being put on the defensive, unity of purpose and action is indispensable. Yet such unity is lacking. There appears to be a wide breach between the leaders of the J.D.C. and those of the Zionist organization. Soft words and camouflage have failed to conceal that breach. It is a yawning abyss, and the humble private in the ranks of Jewish life cannot but despair as he gazes on it. Suspicion and distrust rule. The J.D.C. and the Zionist organization, despite the graceful peace-pipe smoked at Philadelphia, are at loggerheads. They are simultaneously starting on drives, one to raise $15,000,000 and the other to raise $5,000,000. They are bound to conflict with one another and harm one another. The chances are that neither will prove successful.

We are too far removed from the political centre in New York to know the insides of the situation. But this much we do feel—that united action is necessary and indispensable, not only for the successful raising of the necessary funds but also for the morale of American Jewry. If our leaders believe in unity, let them now practice it. Our proposal would be that the Zionist Organization and the J.D.C. join forces and go out in a united campaign for Palestine and for relief. Such a campaign would rally around it all Jewry. It would do more to unify the Jewish communities than thousands of peace palavers. As the J.D.C. at the Philadelphia Conference has endorsed the Palestinian enterprise, it cannot object to uniting with the Zionist forces. The Zionist groups endorsed there the Russian relief proposal. Both, therefore, can work together and must work together for the common ends and goals, and more to rouse the enthusiasm and support of the Jewish masses. "United, we stand; divided, we fall."

A CANADIAN JEWISH COMMITTEE

The American Jewish Committee, which recently held its meeting in New York City, is composed of a representative group of American Jews, and serves as the spokesman for the Jew of America. In times of emergency or crises, the American Jewish Committee Acts. When, for example, the Johnson Immigration Bill was being considered in Congress, Louis Marshall, as chairman of the A.J.C., voiced his protest against its passage, and pointed out its injustices and discriminations. It is an institution which has more than justified its existence. Canada has no such committee. There is no organization in Canada which can speak for the Canadian Jews in times of necessity. Individuals, of course, have taken it upon themselves to champion Jewish rights in the past, but these individuals had no mandate from the Canadian Jews. They spoke for themselves, although they may have had the silent concurrence of their co-religionists. There ought to be a group of men whose duty it will be to represent the Jews of Canada when they need such representation. Such a group should not be arbitrarily selected, as was the American Jewish Committee, but it should be a democratic body, representing all phases of Canadian Jewish life. That group could discuss and consider Jewish problems and determine policies. Furthermore, that organization would be responsible to the Jews of Canada for the safeguarding of their rights and privileges. At the present time all is left to chance. If a Bill is pending in Ottawa which may adversely affect the refugee Jews from Eastern Europe who plan to settle in Canada, there is no body of men who are in duty bound to protest against it, and, furthermore, there is no body of men who have the right to speak in the name of Canadian Jewry. A few individuals with initiative and energy may go to Parliament and, again, they may not. The existence of a Canadian Jewish Committee would eliminate this haphazard and unorganized procedure.

Much as a Canadian Jewish Committee is needed to act as the official spokesmen of the Jew to the Government, it is even more necessary to do constructive work within the Jewish communities. From Toronto to the Pacific coast, there are a number of Jewish communities, almost isolated and leaderless, who crave Jewish organization, who need Jewish advice and who want Jewish initiative. Again comes the problem, who is going to come to their assistance? Who is going to give them the start that will make them Jewishly self-sufficient? Who will help them organize synagogues and religious schools? Who is to start them on the road to full and beautiful Jewish communal life? Again there is no responsible party. Again there is no representative group of men who will undertake this necessary and imperative task. A Canadian Jewish Committee, the representative of Canadian Jewry and the custodian of its interests, could cope with these problems. For the organization of such a committee, we should lend all our energies. We should welcome opinions from our readers on this subject.

THE FEAR BOGEY

Fear is the greatest foe of the human race. The primitive man feared the thunder, the rain, his own shadows, the thousands of spirits with which he peopled his world. He feared lest the sun would set and forget to rise, that the sun would not turn in the heavens during the winter solstice, that the rain would cease falling. We have overcome, by means of reason, many of the fears of the early man, but we have forged new ones. We fear just as many things as did our savage ancestor. We fear Friday the thirteenth. We fear lest the immigrant should corrupt the race. We fear that science will destroy religion. We are afraid that Communism will change the state. Some fear lest free trade will ruin Canada; others fear that protection will. We fear that the morals of our youth are being corrupted. So did the previous generation fear about this one. We fear that the other nations are ready to battle ours. We fear that a new thought will destroy society. We fear any novelty. We fear that a few atheists will annihilate religious institutions. We fear that in a large country, such as ours, more than 8,000,000 people can not live comfortably. We fear to embark on new enterprises. We fear aliens, minorities, those who are different. We fear that too much learning is dangerous, that books are too salacious, that magazines entice the young. And because we fear, we are like a herd of

PALESTINE GROWING RAPIDLY, SAYS CAHAN

Abraham Cahan, editor of the "Jewish Daily Forward," the largest Jewish daily paper in the United States, summed up his impressions of Palestine in an interview with the Jerusalem correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

Mr. Cahan, who will leave Palestine for America in a week, declared that during his month's stay in the country he met the High Commissioner Lord Plumer, and General Storrs, governor of Jerusalem, other English officials, Jewish and Arab leaders, has visited all important points and has observed the arriving immigrants of all types.

"Palestine is a very interesting country and holds an interest for the visitor just like a museum. Although I knew something about Palestine before I arrived here, I was surprised at the colourful actual facts, which change rapidly. Jewish Palestine is growing on an American scale," he declared.

"There certainly are great difficulties, but it is ridiculous to oppose this work," Mr. Cahan continued. "If the Jewish people are convinced that Palestine is able to absorb a few million Jews, nobody will oppose it. The labour forces have increased exceedingly and have built up splendid institutions in the country. Certain leaders of the Jewish labour movement in Palestine are important personages. The Tel Aviv exhibition demonstrated Jewish initiative and the daring Palestine industry. It is splendid as a beginning," Mr. Cahan concluded.

NEW DISCOVERIES MADE IN PALESTINE

The recent discovery made at Beisan of the Temple of Ashtaroth promises to yield many other discoveries of great importance to the early history of Palestine. The Temple which was found dates back to the time of Rameses II. Digging further, they came across another, an earlier Temple, containing a large altar with steps leading up to it and a quantity of beads and jewelry. Among the finds is a stone hawk bearing the crown of North and South Egypt.

JEWISH DEPUTIES OPPOSE POLISH GOVERNMENT

The Jewish deputies of the Polish Parliament decided not to support the vote of confidence in the Government because of the failure of the Government to carry into effect the Polish Jewish agreement. Twelve of them were present when the vote was taken and they all voted in opposition, although the vote was passed by a majority. This does not mean that the Jews contemplate abrogating the pact, unless the Government should interpret this action as a breach of its terms. Minister Grabski expressed regret at the hasty action of the Jewish deputies and said that the Polish Government has now a number of measures under consideration which would tend to improve the condition of the Jews to a large extent. These will be carried out without regard to what the Jewish deputies might choose to do.

It is reported that the Polish embassy in Berlin denied the charge that the Numerus Clausus is being practised in the Polish schools. Figures have been presented by them showing that more than 35 per cent. of the student population was composed of Jews. The study of Jewish history and religion was introduced in some of the high schools of Warsaw as a special subject of study.

YIDDISH PLAYERS

"The Rabbi's Homestead," a Jewish operetta, including excellent Chassidic lore, is the play which will be presented at the Monument National, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. The Hollander Troupe have made every effort to produce this piece in all its details and over forty people will be seen on the stage. The work itself is from the pen of M. Nister, a popular playwright, and the music is under the supervision of Jacob Zanger and the play under direction of Isadore Hollander. This operetta was presented last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and played to such capacity houses that the management decided to repeat the performance. The Hollander troupe has made a success of the season's plays, because of the careful attention given to all details in connection with costuming, staging, scenic effects, etc.

Jews, Protestants and Catholics joined to dedicate the new $200,000 clubhouse of Thomas Dongan Council, Knights of Columbus, at 76th Street and Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn.

The Congress of Islamic Students, which has just closed its sessions at Beirut, Syria, adopted resolutions opposing the establishment of foreign schools throughout Islam, stressing the fear that such schools tend to encroach on the religious inclinations of the inhabitants.

THE FATE OF RUSSIAN JEWRY

In an article contributed to the current Menorah Journal, Mr. Maurice G. Hindus, a careful observer who recently visited Russia, maintains that Russian Jewry is doomed to extinction in the course of one or two generations if the present order of things continues. He points to the gradual assimilation of the younger element of the Jewish community and to the callous attitude that is gradually being adopted by the older generation to this phenomenon. "The cheder is gone, banned by law. The synagogue is growing emptier from day to day. Youth is deserting it continually, will desert more and more as the years pass and as it comes under closer influence of the new idelogy and the new system of education . . . . The entire old setting is disappearing. The Jewish youth to-day has stimulations and excitements of which he did not dream in the old days. He is voraciously imbibing multitudinous impressions which he never had. These are not Jewish impressions . . . . In my judgment, nothing but the collapse of the Revolution can save Russian Jewry from ultimate extinction."

This presents a terrible picture, to which we dare not shut our eyes. It is true that the Moscow Government is allowing complete cultural autonomy to the various nationalitites in Russia. The Yiddish language is recognized officially as the language of the Jews, and schools are maintained by the Government for Jews in which Yiddish is the language of instruction. Mr. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Commissary for Foreign Affairs, recently declared to a Jewish deputation in Berlin that his Government was not even opposed to the teaching of "Ancient Hebrew" and that it is giving a subsidy to the Moscow Hebrew Theatre, "Habimah." He further declared that the Soviet Government was not opposed to Zionism, but only to Zionists who took part in anti-Soviet activity. Prominent Zionists were holding important posts in Russian state organizations, and the policy of the Government was to enlist the co-operation of the Zionists in the Jewish colonization work. He emphasized that the Soviet Government is allowing the Jews to develop economically and nationally in the same manner as it provides for other nationalities.

The policy of the Communist authorities, however, works insidiously among the Jewish youth and creates an estrangement between them and their elders which necessarily leads to entire assimilation. The Moscow Government is avowedly anti-religious and finds it to its interests to spread anti-religious propaganda among the youth. Rabbi Moses Rosenblatt, of Kiev, who is coming to Pittsburgh to take up a position as Rabbi, related to a correspondent of the Jewish Chronicle, when he was in London, some harrowing tales of the manner in which the Communists endeavour to uproot religious institutions. In Kiev twenty-two synagogues had to close, fifteen of which because of the financial burden and seven were forcibly closed by the authorities. Six former synagogues were converted into workers' clubs. He also related that many Hebrew libraries were destroyed wantonly by the Communists, thousands of Hebrew books having been burned in holocausts made in the streets. It is, of course, possible that these atrocities were committed mainly by Jewish Communists, but the Soviet authorities were not likely to interfere in a matter which served its purposes so well and which led directly to the accomplishment of its goal. Even if the Soviet allow complete autonomy to the various racial and national groups, among which the Jews are included, the Jewish group cannot maintain its separate existence for any length of time without the inspiration of the national culture and the national religion. If the greatest ambition of the Jewish youth is to become a full-fledged member of the Communist group, in which atheism forms an important plank in the platform and in which internationalism is the prominent doctrine to which all subscribe, there is indeed great apprehension for the future of Russian Jewry under the present state of affairs.

NEW PALESTINE ARAB MEMORANDUM

A new memorandum with anti-Zionist complaints was submitted by the Palestine Arab Executive to High Commissioner Lord Plumer, according to a despatch to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

In the memorandum the Executive endeavours to show that Jewish immigration into the country increases unemployment and "disseminates Bolshevik ideas. The Hebrew language is a blow to the country and to the treasury. The Jews have captured the government offices, the Zionist leader, Attorney-General Bentwich, enacts laws without reckoning with our traditions," the memorandum complains. In his reply Lord Plumer declared to the Arab Executive that after considering the demands contained in the memorandum, he will submit them to the Colonial Office in London.

RECEIVES CALL FROM ENGLISH CONGREGATION

Dr. Joel Blau, Rabbi of Temple Peni El of New York City, will shortly leave for England to occupy the pulpit of the West London Synagogue of British Jews. Rabbi Blau is a graduate of the Hebrew Union College of the class of 1908, and will be the second alumnus of the institution to become leader of a London congregation. Rabbi Israel Mattuck, who was recently awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Hebrew Law, from the Hebrew Union College, has been minister of the Liberal Synagogue of London for many years.

The West London Synagogue of British Jews is known as the Berkeley Street Synagogue, and was established in 1830 by Spanish and Portuguese Jews. H. S. Q. Henriques, president of the Board of Jewish Deputies, is chairman of the council of the synagogue. Claude Montefiore is a member. Dr. Blau is appointed to the office of chief minister of the Synagogue, the junior minister being the Rev. Vivian D. Simmons.

Dr. Blau is well known for his work both in Hebrew and English. He is also a frequent contributor to periodicals of both Jewish and general interest. Among his works are "The Problem of Modern Faith," the "Status of the Defective in Jewish Law," and his latest work, "The Wonder of Life." In a book recently issued by a leading publishing house on the best sermons of the year, Dr. Blau was the only Rabbi who was included in this issue.

Rabbi Blau has held positions in Brooklyn, Manhattan, Rochester, and for the last six years has been Rabbi of Temple Peni-El.

HANS HERZL ABANDONS CATHOLICISM

Hans Herzl, recent convert to Catholicism, has abandoned the Catholic faith according to his own statement to the office of the Jewish Telegraph Agency, London. In a laconic communication addressed to the Jewish Telegraph Agency, he asked the Agency to declare that, "I no longer regard myself as subject to Catholic obedience." The message does not explain whether Hans has decided to return to Judaism. Inquiry to this effect is being made.

The Institute had been given to the Center by the King Edward Congregation. The speaker was introduced by Rabbi M. J. Mintz, chairman of the open forum of the Center.

Dr. Goldstein emphasized the need for a return by the Jewish people to the "spirituality" of the religion and explained the meaning of the ceremonials of religion. He also criticized the modern household and the method in which the parents rear their children.

A vote of thanks was moved by A. J. Freiman and seconded by I. Zivian. E. Edelstein played the piano. Jack Greenberg sang. Dancing.

Lux for everything you wash yourself

Washing your most precious possessions with Lux is just as easy as washing your hands. The filmy Lux particles melt instantly into a rich foam of almost magic cleansing power, yet gentle to the frailest fabric.

For all dainty things that have to be washed often—as well as all valuable things that have to be washed seldom and with the greatest care—rely on Lux. Remember, it won't shrink woollens, nor will it harm a single silken thread. And Lux is just as mild on your hands as the finest toilet soap—in fact it benefits them.

Read the "Jewish Review"

every friday

Christmas used to come in December, on the 25th of the month, but the August fur sales, the crochet thread manufacturers, these flat Indian summers and the eager department stores have dragged Christmas nearer and nearer to autumn, so it is small wonder that on October 26th a young lady of Toronto wrote the following letter to the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW:

"Now that Christmas is nearing, I would like to ask you what you think of our Jewish people giving one another Christmas presents? Please, do you feel about it the same as I do? Don't you think they could call it a Chanukah present, seeing the two holidays are almost at the same time? Or, perhaps the Jews don't understand the meaning of Christmas. They don't seem to. I am only a young girl and I shouldn't worry, considering that some much older people encourage the giving of Christmas presents and celebrations, but somehow it hurts. Please, please, won't you write a letter in your paper and appeal to the Jewish people? I just can't bear to see the Jewish children looking forward so eagerly to Christmas! Why not to Chanukah? . . . . "

Christmas week will see many Jewish families in this country decking Christmas trees and exchanging gifts within their homes and with other Jews and with Gentile friends; that is, if this Christmas is anything like these of recent years. Christmas makes an appeal to many Jewish adults and probably to all children. All the other people are having a good time, even the poorest. There is geniality and gayety in the air and people are feeling kindly toward each other for a change. As the Gentiles are wont to remind the Jews on occasion, this is a Christian country, so-called, and Christmas is the one big day of the year when the Jews are out of it. Perforce they have a holiday from work and so it is a natural time for fun and parties.

That Gentiles celebrate Christmas does not mean that they dwell upon its religious significance. Christmas has become so commercialized that it has begun to be less like a religious holiday than a national day for the exchange of presents. The newsboy who goes around to collect his Christmas presents is sometimes a pious little Jew of a pious Jewish home. The Gentile newsboy has adopted a box with a slit in it upon which to place his "Merry Christmas" solicitation to customers. Is it the Yuletide spirit which makes the office building elevator operator decide how he is going to treat passengers, or is it the yearly graft? Do people staggering under increasingly long Christmas "lists" think about Jesus and brotherly love, or about what to give whom? If the Gentiles can hardly lay claim to observing Christmas merely and purely as a religious holiday, surely Jews can hardly be accused of observing Christmas as a religious holiday.

Jews who can't resist Christmas often celebrate Chanukah too, strange as that may seem one as a national holiday, the other as their own religious holiday. Jews who do enjoy Christmas may appear inconsistent, traitorous or silly, or all three, but they are not spelling the doom of Judaism or anything like as serious as that. In recent years efforts have increased to make Chanukah counteract Christmas, to have it offset the time when most of civilization's children are hanging up their stockings. That is the necessary thing to do if the eyes of the children are to be kept from wandering to the neighbours' Christmas trees, but what good is it if Chanukah is celebrated a few days before every one's else good time or a few days after?

Chanukah will be really effective for the purpose and long-to-be-remembered only when it has been established to fall on Christmas day. Revolutionary as this sounds, the Jews will come to it some time. When they do, Jewish children will be farther removed from the celebration of Christmas day than if they wore blinders or had their ears stuffed with cotton. They will be busy with their Chanukah, too busy and too excited to look with longing on holly wreaths or to hear the Christmas bells.

REPRESSIONS AGAINST JEWS IN ROUMANIA

The Bratianu Government in Roumania, while playing the part of a liberal administration, is gradually introducing laws and regulations which will make it impossible for Jews to exist in that land. There are now several educational provisions which will make it necessary for the Jews to establish their own schools and practically exclude Jewish children from the Roumanian schools. A number of economic regulations is now being placed before parliament which have as their purpose the further restriction of Jewish industries. Police officials, knowing the tenor of the government, work cruel hardships upon the Jews in their work of carrying out various laws into practice.

About 4,000 Jewish refugees of Bessarabia have been transported to old Roumania, on the ground that it was politically dangerous for the government to keep these "foreigners" near the boundary line. This has caused untold hardships to these unfortunates, although the Roumanian Jews are doing their best to alleviate in a measure the distress caused by this forced migration. The Jews of Bessarabia are in great economic stress on account of the failure of the crops there this summer. Bessarabia is primarily a wine-growing country and the failure of the crops is already evident in the many epidemics that are beginning to appear among the Jews there.

It appears that a terrible catastrophe was obviated by the declaration of martial law by the government in certain districts of Roumania, one was pointed in these columns a few weeks ago. The followers of Professor Cuza apparently organized a Jewish massacre throughout the land, which should be carried out at one time by bands of hooligans who were organized in various parts of the land to fall upon the Jews at a given signal and murder men, women and children. The following secret pass-word had been given to all participants in the plot: "To-day begins the war of annihilation against the Jewish enemy. God leads."

Why Federation Needs Money

A Few Typical Cases of Family Relief

The S—— family came to Canada less than four years ago. There are to-day four children under twelve years of age. The father, a bookkeeper in Poland, has been in turn a presser, a wood-turner and a capmaker. After over a year's almost continuous unemployment, he is to-day earning on half-time from $6 to $8 per week.

The family lives in three very small, overcrowded, poorly furnished rooms, paying a rental of $11 a month, without heat. The children are sickly and undernourished. This family, which should be given not less than $10 a week and moved into better quarters at a necessarily higher rental, is now receiving from Federation, through the Family Welfare Bureau, $5 every week, one quart of milk every day, one-half ton coal every two weeks and clothes for the children.

In the past nine months this family received from Federation over $295.

The M—— Family

The M—— family, consisting of parents and two children, when reported to the Federation, were found living in the overcrowded small house of Mrs. M——'s sister. The father had had a good job and the family had been living comfortably until Mr. M—— was stricken with gangrene and had to lie in the hospital for over five months. The family lived on its own savings for a few months, but when these funds were exhausted the family had to give up its pleasant little home and seek refuge with their own poverty-stricken relatives.

The Federation moved the family into a pleasantly furnished flat at a rental of $20, which Federation paid. The family received $7 weekly and one quart of milk daily. Mr. M——, after his return from the hospital, was assisted, through his Union, in securing an artificial leg and a few weeks ago in securing a job.

The A—— Family

Mr. A—— for the past two years has been suffering from gangrene. Over a year ago both legs were amputated. The disease is spreading through the upper limbs, which in turn may soon have to be removed. The man is confined to his bed and is totally helpless. His wife who looks after him is suffering from diabetes, weak heart and rheumatism. There are no relations who could help. Their two married children are themselves receiving help from the Montreal Federation.

The A——'s live on the ground floor of a rented house, with the upstairs apartment usually rented. At present the upstairs is vacant and the full burden of the entire rent falls upon the A——'s. The two old people need constant medical care, medicines, special foods, etc.—not less than $5 a week is required for medicines and drugs. The Federation sends this old couple regularly $8 a week, coal, medicinal supplies and last week paid their rent of $25. The Federation spent over $400 on this aged pair in the past ten months.

The W—— Family

The family consists of parents and two children, two years and four years of age. The man who was a pedler for over four years became ill with tuberculosis, and was sent to Muskoka where he had been for over a year. Because he went on a city order, on the advice of well-meaning friends, he was ordered to be deported. The Federation obtained a release from deportation upon the payment of over $360 for the accrued bill and has been paying $10.50 every week to the Sanitarium ever since.

The mother, Mrs. W—— is a delicate little woman, unaccustomed to privations and hardship. She is sickly and unable to do more than look after her two babies. The family lives in two rooms at a rental of $10, part of which her husband's brother pays. The Federation in addition to paying for the husband in Muskoka, gives the family in Toronto $7 every week and one quart of milk daily. Since March, 1925, the Federation paid out for the family's keep in Toronto alone over $265.

The B—— Family

Mrs. B——is a widow with four children under thirteen years of age. Her husband died two years ago from cancer. The mother herself is tubercular and chronically ill. The children are also tubercular and have been at the Preventorium. The entire family needs special food, medical care and attention. They live in a three-room flat at a rental of $22 a month. The mother received $50 from the Mothers' Allowance Commission. The Federation assists with rent and medicinal supplies. During the summer the children were sent to the Boys' Camp and the Girls' Camp, and the Mother to the Maternity Aid Rest Home. Since January 1st, 1925, the family received from Federation over $220.

HERZL ZION CLUB

An open literary meeting was held at the Herzl Club rooms, 210 Beverley Street, Sunday evening, November 15. S. J. Rodman, of Montreal, spoke on his impressions of Palestine as it is to-day, and the Fourteenth Zionist Congress. Miss Dorothy Liss sang, accompanied by Miss Pearl Goodfellow, and Misses S. and M. Krehm gave a piano duet. Open meeting, Sunday evening, November 22.

NEW SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

In another column will be found the programme of the New Symphony Orchestra for their concert, Tuesday next, November 24. The New Symphony Orchestra Association, whose purpose is to establish the symphony orchestra, has announced that if Toronto wants to keep its orchestra, 1,200 to 1,500 of its citizens must join the Association, at the cost of ten dollars each, for which they will receive ten one-dollar tickets for ten symphony concerts. So far, despite heroic effort on the part of the Women's Committee, and a good deal of advertising, only 487 have joined the Association.

An appeal is being made to the Jewish people who have not yet joined, although many of them have—to join the Association and help in the work. The Jewish people have always been appreciators of what is fine in music, and one has only to think of the long list of distinguished names of pianists, violinists and vocalists among them to be confident that this appeal will meet with a ready response.

LOEW'S

Beautiful Bebe Daniels as the star, a group of stage and screen celebrities in support, a clever adaptation of a famous stage hit, wonderful settings and thoroughly funny situations—these are just some of the features that insure "Lovers in Quarentine" a great reception at the hands of the picture public when the feature is shown at Loew's Theatre next week. Here is that rare specimen known as 100 per cent. entertainment. Bebe Daniels is one of those "stars" who does not have to fear the support of a strange cast; in this picture she has it, Alfred Lunt, well-known stage star, Harrison Ford, former leading man for Marion Davies, Ivan Simpson and Edna May Oliver, famous character artists, and little Diana Kane, the beautiful young sister of Lois Wilson, who is making her way under an assumed name, are among those present.

Adventures on board ship when all the passengers are quarantined provide great fun situations, and Miss Daniels does not lose a single opportunity to make good in the comedy demands. Her transition from a gawky school girl to a beautiful young woman with the aid of her sister's finery is a wonderful triumph for this popular and vivacious young actress. The settings are handsome and appropriate.

Miss Mathilde Bloch, one of the principals of the well-known boarding school for Jewish girls, Villa Sevigne, Lausanne, has been honoured by the French Government with the Purple Ribbon of the "Officiers d'Académie."
